

Report for Day 11- Tuesday 25th 2019

Every time we have the students here Adriaan and Sandra invite them sailing on their Beneteau Océanis 46 called "Simmertime". They have been fantastic over the years and take the young ones out sailing but also usually invite Alice from the Save the Med foundation who teaches them about plastic and other pollution in our oceans. When they stop to anchor she takes them snorkelling and picking up plastic rubbish from the sea bed which they take back to shore when the day is done. A really fun day with lots of good education. Thank you Adriaan, Sandra and Alice – you are STARS!!

The last supper was at the Wade house again, Anne's cooking enjoyed by all.

Wednesday morning, departure day Terry took them into town for some souvenir shopping in the morning then a farewell lunch overlooking the Cathedral before heading for their flights at 5pm.

Ready to head to the airport.

All happy but sad as well to leave, but they have plenty of good stories to tell when they get back home

Cheers - Phil
